Python Basics Notes

What is Python?

Python is a high-level, interpreted programming language known for its simplicity and readability.

Variables and Data Types

Python supports int, float, string, list, tuple, dictionary, and boolean data types.

Control Flow

Conditional statements include if, elif, and else. Loops include for and while loops.

Functions

Functions are defined using the def keyword and help in code reusability